Jeer at Suit Of GI Making It Back to Post

By Hal Boyle

With U. S. Troops in Korea—(P)

—An 18-year-old American soldier, wearing the white pants and white shirt of a Korean, stumbled tiredly into a command post.

A group of doughboys saw him and began to jeer at him good naturedly.

"Where'd you get the cook suit, kid," one called.

The young soldier—PFC James Cannon of Medford, Mass., grinned shyly at them and then trudged wearily into headquarters.

There he reported that he was the only survivor of a squad of eight men, trapped in Kozhang during a battle where the Reds seized control of that central bastion of the western front.

He said his seven comrades were cut down by machine gun fire trying to break through enemy lines and that he escaped across the mountains after trading clothing with a South Korean refugee.

"We were trapped behind a brick wall in the city," Cannon said.

"We decided the only thing to do was to run for it rather than surrender. They had us surrounded."

"Four of the fellows were caught by machine gun fire before we reached a small stream at the base of a hill. Our corporal had been wounded. I tried to drag him behind a rock."

A North Korean came up on Cannon from behind. A South Korean soldier rushed the north-er and killed him by snifing him through the throat and chest.

"I don't know where that South Korean soldier came from," Cannon said. "I just looked up and he was there."

Cannon and the South Korean soldier then took off up the hill separately.

"There was a lot of sniper fire and I was the only one of our squad to make it to the top," he said. "Once I looked back and saw another North Korean soldier come up and bayonet our corporal."

"On the other side of the hill I met a refugee and traded clothes with him."

"I don't think he was too happy about it—but I couldn't understand what he was saying."

Cannon said a South Korean villager hid him overnight under the porch of his home and brought him six raw eggs the next morning.

"I could only get three of them down," Cannon said. "That's all I had to eat, except a watermelon I borrowed."

Other friendly Koreans guided him back to a command post. Cannon seemed none the worse for his experience.

"All I brought out with me," he said, "was my dogtags, a packet of matches, a few cigarettes, and—this."

He reached in his shirt pocket and pulled out a medal of the blessed Virgin Mary.

Israel Bans U. S. Newsreel

TEL AVVIV, Israel —(P)—Israeli censorship authorities banned the showing of an American newsreel on Korea. The film dealt with the background to the Korean trouble. No reason was assigned for prohibiting showings.

Where the Tall Corn Grows

Iowa may be known as the Tall Corn State, but George Russell, transplanted Missourian, does pretty well with his piece of Long Beach, Calif. soil. Russell is holding several turkeys, which tip the scales at seven pounds apiece, a one-and-one-quarter-pound roasting ear, and is standing in the midst of corn 14 feet tall. Russell, 77, is a retired hospital employee. (AP Wirephoto)

Leans to Paint at 72

VANCOUVER —(P)—Mary Clarke wanted to paint, and her years—72 of them—proved no handicap. A white-haired mother of eight, Mrs. Clarke learned the fundamentals of painting in a winter art course, taking one night a week to wield a brush.

She said at first her attempts looked like the work of a four-year-old, but that it didn't matter because she got enjoyment out of it.

"With my children all either married or away on their own and my husband dead, I need a hobby to keep me busy," she explained.

Last Minute Farewell

Today's Scenes Are Much Like Past War Days

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 2 —(P)—The scenes were grimly reminiscent.

Couples embraced and parted quickly. A grandmother held her little granddaughter to the open window of a slow-moving railroad coach. The child clutched at her father who looked a smile.

"Isn't it awful, isn't it awful?" A young bride of four days asked numbly of no one in particular as the troop train gathered momentum.

"B" company of the 20th Marine Infantry reserve battalion had gone on active duty, maybe to war, the first Oklahoma fighting unit called up.

Its 232 men came from all walks of life—college students, bankers, office workers, truck drivers, attorneys—but they agreed on one thing, summed up by a corporal.

"There's just no other way out of this world situation," he said, shouldering a full field pack.

Mary, 33, a nurse, like Pfc. Andy Ellis, a tall blond Indian who saw combat at Guadalcanal, Tarnawa, Salpan and Tiflen. He helped his wife feed their five-month-old daughter her bottle at train-side.

"Wonder what'll be like?" a recruit questioned his buddy.

The men were called back in ranks and marched aboard the train.

A mother waved her handkerchief.

"Well, it's happened again," she said.

Vaughn In Missouri To Attend Funeral

MARSHALL, Mo., Aug. 2—(P)—Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughn, presidential military aide, arrived here by plane at 12:50 a.m. Tuesday and left immediately for Glasgow to attend funeral of his mother Mrs. Betty Vaughn. She died yesterday.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a.m. today at the Glasgow Presbyterian church, with burial in the Washington cemetery here. Dr. J. H. Faure, Missouri Valley college professor and pastor of the Glasgow church will be in charge.

General Vaughn, who arrived in an air force DC-3, was met at the airport here by his brother-in-law, Harry Foster, St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Meyer of Glasgow, friends of the family.

Mrs. Stella Clark, 1026 Cornell Ave., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and Nicotin, thinks a vigorous appetite, fine food and lots of good, sound sleep are the keys to health and happiness. All of these were made possible by the blessings of HADACOL when HADACOL overcame these deficiencies.

Here is Mrs. Clark's statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was troubled with nervous indigestion. My stomach was just tied in knots when I would sit down to eat. You can imagine how I enjoyed my food and how much good it did me. It affected my sleep too—there was many a night I lay awake for hours and hours. I heard about HADACOL and have been taking it ever since. I have no more stomach distress. I enjoy my food and I sleep like a ton every night of the week. I started my husband taking HADACOL and he, too, says that now he has never felt better in his life. I just can't thank HADACOL enough—and, of course, I recommend it to all my friends."

HADACOL Works

... in helping to build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails. Countless thousands whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B₁, Iron, and Nicotin are benefitting from HADACOL... even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients.

Give HADACOL a Chance

Yes, give HADACOL a chance to help you. Refuse substitutes. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel better with the first few bottles you take or your money back. Finds Europe Short of Singers

EDINBURGH, Scotland — (AP) — "The time when the New York 'Met' had to look to Europe for most of its singers is definitely over," said Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Co., when he arrived here after a four week talent search in Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, France and England. Bing told reporters: "There are very few outstanding voices still left in Europe."

Caracas Conquers Traffic Problems With 3-Level Road

THROUGH THE HEART OF CARACAS goes a 12-block swath where the $25,000,000 Bolivar Avenue Expressway is being built. Nearing completion, it will lick the city's traffic and parking problems.

By NEA Foreign Service

CARACAS, Venezuela — (NEA) — While every American city wrestles somewhat futilely with their growing traffic and parking problems, this South American capital is just about to lick them once and for all.

Nearing completion is one of the most ambitious city street improvement projects ever attempted on this continent. At a cost of $25,000,000, a 12-block swath has been cut through the heart of the city for the construction of the fabulous Bolivar Avenue Expressway.

Thousands of business offices and dwelling units had to be demolished for the project. There is hardly anything comparable to it in the U. S. It consists of three layers, the bottom and top for one-way traffic, and the center level for the parking of 1500 cars.

The oil and steel boom, which this country is enjoying, inspired the project. Previously only very narrow streets criss-crossed the ancient city. As more and more cars, mostly those of modern American make, began to jam the streets, the traffic problem became unbearable and the parking problem impossible.

A unique method was found to finance the Expressway. All of the persons who lost property and homes to the project were made stockholders in the enterprise, which includes the construction of modern office buildings and apartments along the new road.

By using space more efficiently, no one was without business or living quarters. Stemming out from Caracas in every direction there is also an ambitious rural roads program under way. By 1957 Venezuela hopes to have 420 miles of modern roads.

Labor Group Has Marketing Unit

TEL AVIV, Israel — (AP) — Histadrut—the powerful Jewish General Federation of Labor—is setting up a big purchasing and marketing organization for industries in all villages and cities of Israel. It is called "Hamshavek." Its objectives are two-fold: to obtain raw materials for Histadrut industries in immigrants' settlements and towns and cities, and to handle the wholesale marketing of products of these industries.

Israel's federation of labor is unique in that it not only represents workers who are members of trade unions, but in many instances is itself their employer.

History Matches MacArthur's Age

NEW YORK — (AP) — Douglas MacArthur at 70 is one of a number of generals who have maintained great military reputations at an age when most commanders have retired.

According to Col. Roswell P. Rosengren, chief of army information in New York, Charlemagne at 72 was converting the Saxons to Christianity with the sword. Frederick the great of Prussia was giving a good account of himself in the field up to the 74th and last year of his life. Paul von Hindenburg was nearly 67 at the time of his victory at Tannenberg, and was chief of the German staff at 70.

African "Wireless"

Equatorial Africa's native "wireless" telegraph consists of the goudougoudou, a large, hollowed-out log, six feet long and three feet thick. Signals are drummed on the instrument with sticks tipped in natural rubber. Messages are relayed from one village to the next with incredible speed.

Fishermen of Hainan Island frequently make three-month voyages for sea slugs, turtles and sharkfins.

CHICAGO — (AP) — A poll indicates most working girls plan to hold jobs after they marry. The Real Estate Research Corporation interviewed 1,000 brides-to-be at the Cook County (Chicago) Marriage License Bureau. The results: 70 per cent said they would work, almost 25 per cent said they planned to stay at home. A similar survey last year showed 75 per cent would keep their jobs.

PARIS — (AP) — Provanon Cognac has held a seat in the French National Assembly as a deputy from Tahiti since his election last October. He has yet to make an appearance in Paris. The results: 70 per cent said they would work, almost 25 per cent said they planned to stay at home. A similar survey last year showed 75 per cent would keep their jobs.

Bridge-wrecking Helps 'Delaying Action'--

An important feature of the stubborn "delaying action" fought by the U. S. and South Korean troops against overwhelming odds has been the blowing up of bridges to slow up the enemy's advance. These photos, taken on the Yongdong front by NEA-Acme correspondent Ed Hoffman, show in vivid detail how a First Cavalry division demolition squad goes about its work.

Having packed TNT charges around the supporting columns of the bridge, engineers busily connect detonating wires. Note two men (right) alert for enemy attack. With explosives all set...

...retreating Yanks file across the bridge. In foreground beside road is a string of anti-tank mines. Sometimes, due to hasty wiring, demolition charges fail to explode. So these...

...mines are dragged out and laid across the roadbed — just to make sure. If enemy tank explodes one of them, the concussion will probably set off the rest, like a bunch of firecrackers.

Few Guard Units Called To Duty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The National Guard units which the Army is summoning to brace its ranks were identified Tuesday as 28th, 40th, 43rd and 45th infantry divisions and the 196th and 273rd regimental combat teams.

The 28th, a Pennsylvania outfit, will train at Camp Atterbury near Edinburg, Ind.

The 40th California division goes to Camp Cooke, near Lompoc, Calif.

The 43rd, made up of guardsmen from Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island, is assigned to Camp Pickett near Blackstone, Va.

The 45th, from Oklahoma, is headed for Camp Polk, near Lessville, La.

The 196th combat team is from South Dakota. It will train at Camp Carson, near Colorado Springs, Colo. The 273rd, from Tennessee, has been assigned to Fort Devens near Ayer, Mass.

The guardsmen were called up yesterday but identification of the units involved was held up so the men could get their summons through regular military channels. The Army also announced that Camp Chaffee, near Fort Smith, Ark., and Fort Leonard Wood, near Newburg, Mo., will be reopened as replacement training centers. The peak training capacity at Fort Leonard Wood during the last war was 33,000 men that of Camp Chaffee about 14,000.

In all, the National Guard has 27 divisions and 20 regimental combat teams. Few if any are believed near the war strength of 14,000 men per division, 5,000 per combat team.

What's in a Name? Torture
VIENNA—(AP)—Dr. Mathias Vesz, a former member of the Hungarian parliament, fled to Austria last year. Once here he began writing letters to Hungarian Communist leaders, denouncing them as traitors.

Hungarian secret police came to Vienna to arrest Vesz. Working with Russian officers, they finally located a Dr. Mathias Vesz and took him to Budapest.

In the dread prison at Andrássy-Ut 60 police tried to force a confession from him, despite his protests that he was an Austrian dentist who couldn't even speak Hungarian. After three weeks during which time he was badly beaten every day, his captors admitted they must have made a mistake. Vesz was taken to a hospital. When marks of his beatings faded, he was released after signing a statement absolving the Hungarian police of blame. Meantime the Dr. Vesz wanted by the Hungarians fled to Switzerland.

Even Wiser than He Seems

PLAINLY, here travels a man wise in the ways of fine motorcars.

You know that, by the four Ventiports and the rich sweep of chrome which mark his car as a ROADMASTER.

You know it, should you trail him on the highway, by the smooth lift of the big Fireball power plant at his toe's command, by the obvious levelness of the ride he enjoys, the swift ease with which Dynaflo Drive solves his traffic problems.

What is not so plain from what you see is that here also is a man very wise in what today's dollar should buy!

For this man has all that a fine-car owner can ask for—brilliant performance, a ride without equal for gentle softness, finger-easy handling, abundant room all around him, styling that is easily the most distinguished on the highway.

Yet he paid considerably less than comparable merit costs elsewhere.

He found fewer extra charges in his delivered price, with such things as Dynaflo Drive, foam rubber cushions, windshield washers, electric clock, even non-glare rear-view mirror included in the price.

If you know fine cars, it won't take fifteen minutes behind a ROADMASTER wheel to see that here is one of the finest.

If you have inquired about prices, a single glance at the delivered figures establishes this as the big buy of the field.

Why not make both checks—especially since your Buick dealer will be glad to arrange a trial run in a ROADMASTER any time you care to call on him?

session that the excess profits tax rider was tabled by a vote of 15 to 8.

They said however that the committee's action did not close the door to future consideration of such a levy.

Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), author of the re-negotiation bill, told reporters that he did not feel a tax levy had any place in that legislation. Taxes can be taken up separately, he added.

"The bill before the committee is only for the purpose of re-negotiating defense contracts to recover excessive profits," Vinson said.

The excess profits tax provision was offered by Rep. Mills (D-Ark).

He proposed a study of excessive profits and their taxation as a part of the whole re-negotiation procedure.

The committee meanwhile appeared headed toward early final action on some form of re-negotiation legislation patterned after World War I laws.

Earlier, Senator George (D-Ga.) predicted that President Truman's $5,000,000,000 tax boosting bill will be quickly passed, "substantially as submitted." President Truman's plan lacked the excess profits tax feature.

The bill, to buy more American fighting equipment, came up for closed door consideration today by the Senate finance committee which George heads.

He figured that the increased rates on corporations and individuals might raise $6,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 in the next year, instead of $5,000,000,000—because of the probable increase in national income.

The higher rate may be effective on incomes earned after Oct. 11. There is strong resistance in Congress to the President's proposal that the increase be effective on all corporation income in 1950.

There was increasing clamor, meanwhile, for (1) broadening the bill to strike a withering blow at profiteering, (2) for financing the current resistance to communist aggression on a pay-as-you-go basis, and (3) for slashing non-defense government spending to the bone.

Crimp War Profits
A big drive developed for immediate action on an excess profits tax, to take the profits out of war.

George predicted an excess profits levy will be imposed on 1951 corporations income, but he said action on this can wait until January.

Notwithstanding, Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of the House-Senate economic committee and Rep. Mills (D-Ark) led movements on both sides of the Capitol for immediate action on excess profits. O'Mahoney proposed that the tax be levied immediately; Mills that it apply beginning with 1951 income.

Senate Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois announced that as a member of the finance committee he will insist upon drastic tax action to curb profiteering.

Take From Individuals
The tax plan submitted by Mr. Truman would:

1. Increase the income tax of individuals by as much as 20 per cent in some brackets. The total new take from individuals, not taking into account the prospect of higher income, would be $3,000,000,000. The President said the increased rate should apply to the last three months of the 1950 income of individuals.

2. Increase corporation taxes by $1,580,000,000. This would be done by putting the corporation rates at 25 per cent on the first $25,000 of net income and 45 per cent on net income over $25,000. Present corporation rates are 21 per cent on the first $5,000, 23 per cent on the next $15,000, 25 per cent on the next $5,000, 53 per cent on income between $25,000 and $50,000, and 38 per cent on income above $50,000. Mr. Truman wants the higher tax on all 1950 corporation income.

3. Retain the revenue raising provisions of the $1,000,000,000 excise tax cutting bill that Congress put aside when the Korean war began. These include loophole plugging, a withholding levy on corporation dividends and net taxes on the investment earnings of life insurance companies.

Moreover, George said he ex-five of the late world war.

That is the background of the scrap over procedure with which the Security Council opened its August sessions yesterday under presidency of Jakob A. Malik, a Soviet representative. Malik's presence was in itself an indication of the importance which Russia attached to the occasion, for the Soviet had been boycotting U. N. organizations since last January.

Well, now, let's take a look at this Soviet proposal to see whether it has any substance back of it. Naturally the Democracies aren't going to agree to any such bribe to buy off the aggressors. However, it is a military fact that the North Koreans have overrun the major portion of South Korea despite American intervention under U. N. auspices.

No Doubt of Victory

True, we have no reason whatever to doubt that the U. N. forces, with America carrying the main burden, will win the Korean war and evict the invaders. Still, that is an eventuality, whereas the northern Korean successes are an accomplished fact, even though they may not be long lived.

Under those circumstances there is no reason for us to be surprised to see Moscow try to make capital out of the situation. If Russia could get Red China installed in the United Nations, in exchange for Moscow's intervention to halt the Korean upheaval, peets the President to propose much higher taxes when Congress convenes in January.

Meanwhile, Senator Taft, of Ohio, a member of the finance committee, issued a new statement saying that while new expenditures for defense are heavy they can be paid for out of taxes and handled on a pay-as-you-go basis. That is the first step to prevent inflation.

"I suggest therefore," he said, "that we should (1) economize on all domestic expenditures; (2) levy taxes to cover all contemplated expenditures and levy them at once, no matter how burdensome they appear; (3) impose controls on the increase of private credit."

Troops of U. S. Pull Out of a Blazing City

it really would represent a double bargain for the Soviet.

Why? Well, because (1) Communism would gain much prestige in Asia through membership in the peace organization, and (2) because Moscow can see that ultimately the North Koreans will be defeated. So if that defeat could be avoided, with a return to the status before the war, the Red effort to conquer South Korea could be taken up again at a more opportune time.

There are many evidences that Moscow has on hand numerous projects for the spread of Communism. In some of them Red China could play an invaluable part. For example, take the case of Tibet, which China has sworn to take over. Actions against India, China and other Asiatic areas also seem contemplated. And, in any event, recognition of Red China would enhance Communist prestige enormously in the Orient.

So, as remarked, the U. N. battle over Korea might easily rank among the decisive engagements of that Far Eastern conflict.

Pendergast Back In The Saddle

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Pendergast organization appears to be back in the saddle again.

Not only did the forces of Jim Pendergast ride high in making a clean sweep of major county offices in Tuesday's primary, but they corralled the Democratic committee as well.

While building up a big majority for Emory W. Allison for the senate, the Pendergast organization won 41 of the 56 places on the county committee.

This is a decided contrast to the situation two years ago when Pendergast had only a four vote margin in the committee during an organization session.

The Serman faction won four places and the Shannon faction seven.

On that basis it appears that Jim, nephew of the late Tom Pendergast, will be on top for the next two years in Jackson county. His bid for return to power was

The Washington Merry-Go-Round
Big, New American Tank Superior to all Others

By Drew Pearson
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A new super-tank will soon be ready for Korean action, that is the fastest, deadliest, and best-armored in the world. Military leaders say it represents as great an advance in ground attack as the jet plane in the air. They also predict it will be vastly superior to the massive Russian tanks being used by the North Koreans. This information was given to a closed-door meeting of the House armed services committee by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff. General Collins testified that the tank, already in production, will outspeed and outmaneuver any enemy tank it comes up against. Furthermore, it will not only be equipped with weapons capable of "destroying any other tank," including the Russian Goliath, Collins told the committee, but it will have better armor to resist enemy fire. "In all departments, it is by far the best tank ever produced," Collins declared. Somewhat smaller than the Russian opposite number, it also is less expensive to build, the chief of staff added. Chief defects of the Russian tank are its size and lack of maneuverability, which make for an easier target. "Our bazookas have established that fact," Collins said.

Republicans Wake Up
Member of the palace guard chiefly responsible for holding President Truman back on all-out war controls is affable, take-it-easy, nice-as-an-old-shoe secretary of the treasury John Snyder. He is also the man who is likely to let the Republicans steal the show when it comes to protecting the public on price-gouging. Astute Sen. Joe O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat, put his finger on this when he called Secretary Snyder on the phone recently. "I'm having a meeting of brain-trusters from here and there to talk over an excess-profits tax," O'Mahoney told the man who is supposed to advise on and help originate tax legislation. "I'd be glad to invite you to sit in with us, John, but I'm not," the Wyoming senator continued. "For, somehow or other, I don't think you'd be much help on an excess-profits tax." What O'Mahoney knew was that Secretary Snyder has been pulling against any stiff excess-profits tax, despite the fact that this proved the most efficient means of both holding down prices and financing the last war. It is also one of the main planks in the control platform of wise old Bernard Baruch whose advice has helped guide the nation through two wars. Jumping on Baruch's platform the other day, Congressman Kunkel of Pennsylvania, who recently ran for governor on the GOP ticket but lost in the primary, proposed complete adoption of Baruch's all-out price-tax-wage-and-inflation controls. Catching the Democrats off guard, the Republicans voted solidly in the House banking and currency committee for the Baruch plan and lost by only one vote. Administration Democrats were scared stiff. It was their first realization that the country, as usual, is ahead of Washington. And this time the Republicans seem to have awakened to the fact first.

$1-a-Year-Men
A hot and significant argument is going on inside the administration on the important question of $1-a-year-men. President Truman doesn't want them, but some of his advisers are pressuring to bring an army of $1-a-year men back to Washington. One-dollar men are business executives who work for the government yet continue to keep their private business positions. They accept $1 a year from the government as a token payment, but continue to draw regular salaries from their own companies. Some of these men performed skilled and patriotic jobs for their country during World War II. But many, suffering from divided allegiance, seemed to be thinking more of their own companies than their government. And some deliberately came to Washington with the idea of feathering their own business nests. President Truman, when head of the Truman Investigating committee, saw a great deal of this nest-feathering by $1-a-year men and doesn't want it repeated. However, the business advisory council, a group of businessmen advising the commerce department, urges otherwise, and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has backed them up.

Army Should Educate GI's On What Their Blood Buys

By Bruce Blossat
Our defense officials are being jumped on because U. S. troops in Korea had to begin fighting without tanks, tank-killing bazookas and other useful weapons. But that's not all they failed to provide the GI's. They didn't tell them why they have to fight in Korea. American soldiers were sent packing off to a strange country of which they know little, with no guidance but a few nasty mutterings about "communism." Now reports come filtering back that many of our fighting men resent being thrown into a fight they don't understand. Furthermore, not having been briefed on what makes a Korean tick, they're showing a lot of impatience and mistrust toward their allies. Since nationalism burns bright among Koreans as among all Asiatics, the natives don't like being shrugged off as a bunch of inferiors. They're beginning to cool off toward their would-be saviors, and in time may become actively hostile. One can guess what the top military men would say about this: "Nobody told us we'd ever have to fight in Korea." They've already said it to explain why they weren't set for the sort of war we're fighting there. But that answer isn't good enough. A good many expert judges declare we did a bad job of telling GI's in World War II why they had to fight in Europe. Do our present-day soldiers have a real idea what they're supposed to be doing in occupied Germany, in Austria, Trieste and Japan? They know their military duties, of course. But they don't get much helpful talk on why they're thousands of miles from home. On the basis of past performance, there's little reason to believe the GI's would have been briefed any better if the military knew they were heading for Korea. It looks like the military either doesn't know how to teach the political facts of life, or can't see their importance. Our soldiers in Korea might as well be men from Mars for all they know of that country. And they could be forgiven for thinking Karl Marx, the father of communism, plays hard base for the Cincinnati Reds. It's too late to prevent the harm done by their lack of good guidance up to now. But since the top brass has at last turned attention to giving the GI some hardware to fight with maybe they can devote a little thought to telling him sensibly why he has to use the stuff.

UN Gains Its Greatest Stature Taking Positive Korean Action

By Peter Edson
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Future action by the United Nations in dealing with the North Korean aggression offers interesting possibilities for speculation. In the first place, it must be fully recognized that for the first time in the world's history 56 nations—out of 59 UN members—have agreed on sanctions against an aggressor. The 56 have agreed to furnish such aid as they can to put down this North Korean invasion of South Korea. The most optimistic interpretation of this action is that it may mark the beginning of the end for Soviet initiative in world-wide aggression. If these first sanctions can be made to stick, it may mean that the United Nations itself will henceforth be able to take the initiative in maintaining peace. The big question now is, can this bloc of 56 peace-loving nations be made to stick together? One of the chief objectives of Moscow propaganda has been to break up this combination. The effort has been to separate the other anti-Communist powers from the United States. It has been an effort to sell the idea that the United States provoked the South Koreans into an attack on the North Koreans. So far, nobody outside the Iron Curtain has really bought this line. Small Nations Need UN
Yugoslavia's action in abstaining from voting on the U. S. resolutions against North Korea in Security Council was something of a surprise. If Yugoslavia had been under attack from, say Bulgaria, there would have been no such vote. Egypt's delegate gave as his excuse for not voting for the resolutions that he could not get instructions from his government. There was also believed to be some feeling that the UN had not given the Arab countries protection against Israel. If any of the Arab countries ever were attacked by an aggressor, however, their greatest protection would be through the precedent set by UN resolutions against North Korea. As Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan put it, if North Korea's aggression is not put down, no small nation can ever again feel safe. This is the great unifying force. British and Indian attempts to mediate the Korean crisis and persuade the Russians to withdraw their support of the North Koreans are individual nation reeters. Any final settlement must be made by the United Nations. When the Security Council is called into session later on, it is anticipated that the Russians will present a resolution charging the South Koreans with aggression and blasting the "United States imperialist warmongers of Wall Street" in usual fashion. A Weak UN Is Russia's Goal
Such a resolution would require seven out of the 11 members votes for approval. It doesn't stand a chance. Even if it did, it could be vetoed by the United States, making the Russians take some of their own medicine. If action by the Security Council should become stalemated, it is always possible to call a special session of the General Assembly. That is the way the UN has met a number of its difficult problems in the past. The possibility of Russian withdrawal from the UN is not now considered likely. One reason is that the Communists need the United Nations. They need it as a sounding board for their propaganda outside the Iron Curtain. The Communists need a weak United Nations, however, not a strong one. That is why they may be counted on to continue trying to disrupt and hamstring its operations. As for what will happen after the North Koreans withdraw or are forced back of the 38th parallel, no official in Washington will commit himself. President Truman dodged the question at his last press conference. The objective now is merely to force the aggressors back to the line. But a close reading of the UN resolutions reveals that the UN Commission for Korea is directed to make recommendations on further steps the world organization should take to restore peace. This is believed to leave the way open for additional action north of the 38th parallel, if that is deemed necessary.

GOD RULES IN TERMS OF CHRIST

The Kingdom of God is at your door! The Divine invasion is near! The future of that Divine invasion is seen in Christ. He is the Personal Approach from the unseen to the visible. He is the nature of Reality as unveiled. In Him we see the nature of God and also in the nature of God's reign. God reigns in terms of Christ. He also rules in terms of Christ. Christ is the revelation of God and also the revelation of the Kingdom of God. He identifies himself with God and also with the Kingdom of God. In Christ the Kingdom is given content and character. If the Kingdom were only in us, we only among us, then we could not be sure of its character, for our characters would blur its character. But in Christ the character of the Kingdom is revealed. If God is Christ, Universalized, so the Kingdom is the spirit of Christ reign. This is important, for it means that we cannot bring in the Kingdom by any method's other than Christlike methods—ways we thought we had brought in it, it wouldn't be the Kingdom; it would be something else. The ways we had used in our attempt to bring in the Kingdom would enter into and spoil the very goal toward which we had striven. In other words, the means would enter into and spoil the end. To the means pre-exist in and determine the ends. In Christ the Kingdom is given not only a character, content, but also a personal content. In Him the Kingdom is no longer merely an impersonal Order. When I give myself to the Kingdom I give myself to the Person who embodies that Kingdom. That makes my relationships with the Kingdom warm and tender and personal. I can be loyal to an Order, but I cannot love it. But in Christ it is possible both to be loyal and to love the Kingdom. For in Him the Kingdom looks out at me with tender eyes, loves me with warm love and touches me with strong, redemptive hands—it is Personal. Christ is the Kingdom personalized.

Christ, in Thee I see into the heart and meaning of God's Kingdom. Thou has fixed the character of that Reign. What can I ask more? How can I be satisfied with anything less? To such a Kingdom I can surrender with complete abandon. I do. In Thy name. Amen.

Treatment for Apoplexy is Complete Rest, Good Nursing

BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

A stroke of apoplexy means that there has been some bleeding from one of the blood vessels in the brain or that a clot has developed in one of the arteries or veins of the brain. Either one causes damage to the delicate brain tissues which that particular blood vessel supplies with blood and interferes with the functions which are controlled by the injured part of the brain. Since both hemorrhage and a clot usually occur rapidly, the paralysis and interference with bodily functions is likely to be sudden. Also, because the nerves running from the brain to the muscles cross from one side to the other, a paralysis of the right side of the body means generally that the damage has occurred on the left side of the brain. When the area injured is large, so often, however, that it should be considered as a result of the "stroke" itself and should be treated and accepted as well as possible. The amount of recovery from a stroke depends on the original size of the hemorrhage or clot and what part of the brain is hit. Recovery starts early. The amount of paralysis present is usually greatest at the beginning and tends to become less as time goes on. Some people who have had an extensive paralysis recover almost entirely. BEN MALON was not working on a picture at the time and he managed a 10-week vacation and went to Honolulu. When he came back he eloped suddenly with a young stock actress named Sally Branch, whom Ellie had seen but never met. Ellie was pleased and a bit amused. She had no regrets. She sent them a present and was surprised when she said no word from Ben, only a short, pleasant note of thanks from her bride. Ellie did not see Ben for a long time. One day when she was shopping she saw his wife come into the store. Ellie hesitated and then cut over and introduced herself. Sally Mallon was blonde and conventionally pretty and looked little older than her years. She looked at Ellie oddly and said, "Yes, I know who you are, of course." "How's Ben?" "He's fine. Just fine. There was a hard ring to the girl's voice." Ellie could not understand it and he was a little embarrassed. She said, "I haven't seen Ben in such long time, and I've never had a chance to get acquainted with you, wonder if the two of you could come over to dinner soon." "I'm sorry." It was clear that Sally was not at all sorry. "I'm going to Palm Springs next week, don't know when I'll be back." There was a pause, and Ellie said awkwardly, "Is Ben going with you?" "No, no, as a matter of fact—" Sally spoke with a defensive air. "—this is what's called a 'trial separation'." There was no adequate answer. Ellie said, "I'm sorry." "Are you?" "Of course." Sally looked at her sharply and said, "Look, I'd like to talk to you. There's a place across the street, will you have a drink with me?" "Oh, I'm sure people don't say that." The girl shrugged. "It doesn't matter. I married Ben because I was crazy about him." "Of course you were." Ellie smiled reassuringly. "There is plenty of reason to be." "I know I got him on the rebound, but I didn't care. I thought he'd get over it. Well, he didn't. He's nice, he's wonderful, he's sweet. But the grand passion just isn't there. And my pride can't take it. I don't want to stand in for another woman." She paused and looked directly at Ellie. "And he's still in love with you." Ellie was too stunned to speak. Then she stammered: "Oh, but—but you're so wrong—" "Am I?" Sally's voice was shrill and Ellie saw with horror that she was about to cry. "Oh, yes," Ellie leaned forward, desperately earnest. "Believe me, it wasn't like that at all. Ben and I were both lonely and at loose ends, so for a while we thought of getting married. That was all." Sally raised her eyebrows in cold disbelief. Suddenly Ellie laughed. She could not help it; the situation was too ridiculous. "Really, this is so silly. Look at me—I'm exactly like the parts I play in pictures—the big sister type, the old pal. I'm hardly the

Any and All of These Things Are 'Just Like a Woman'

It's just like a woman—To judge a man's success by the labels in the clothes his wife wears. To "discover" that she has moved into a neighborhood full of problem children when her own start getting into fights. To feel she has to wear what everyone else is wearing, and yet be completely disgusted if she sees another dress just like her own at a party. LONDON — Titled Britishers are whispering over their tea and crumpets. And untitled Britishers are whispering over their pint of bitters.

Their whispers go something like this: "She's a wonderful woman, but that awful dress — gor blimey!"

Object of their criticism is Queen Elizabeth, who appeared at the very fashionable Somerset-

Controversial costume is this dress Queen Elizabeth wore to a wedding.

Thynne wedding in a long print dress with a big hat and long gloves and open-toed shoes.

When the picture of Her Royal Highness the Queen first appeared, nothing much happened. But when a newspaper took HRH the Q to task for wearing "clothes that do not do her justice," the whispers erupted like popovers.

There are many who defend the queen, saying she can wear anything she pleases. If she wants to wear a long print dress with a big hat and long gloves and open-toed shoes, she can jolly well wear a long print dress with a big hat, etc., they say.

But there are others who think that, as queen, she has an obligation to dress in the latest fashion. The newspaper that first mentioned the ticklish subject feels that way.

"How the queen dresses is of immense interest to all the women in Britain," the paper said, "for they feel that she represents them."

The paper criticized the queen's wedding outfit on six points:

1. The hat, they said, was "too large, too heavy and too drooping."
2. The pattern of the dress was called "better on a furnishing fabric."
3. "The skimpy cape" was disapproved of as being "both broadening and shortening," two directions in which Her Majesty apparently needs no outside help.
4. The paper thought the "dark edging makes the dress look like a dressing-gown with the sash undone."
5. The gloves, too, were bad. They were "too heavy looking and add unnecessary bulk to the figure."

6. Lastly "the peek-a-boo shoes have been considered inelegant for two years."

Wrapping the whole nasty business up, the paper said, "All in all, (the costume was) a misguided effort that will not enhance our growing reputation as a fashion-conscious nation."

To take the curse off the critique, the paper added a few choice compliments. The queen, they said, usually looks "serenely lovely." She is a "delightful personality." On most occasions she is "superbly dressed." And at night time, when she is dressed in her "erminoline and jewels," she is "a regal figure, who might have stepped out of the romantic past."

But the gals in Great Britain are hanging over their back fences, speaking in rushed tones of the way the queen looked at the Somerset-Thynne wedding. Whether they approve or disapprove, it's the biggest thing to hit London gossip since Wallis Simpson.

Mouse Grows Old Without Water,

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — A pocket mouse which never drank water or other liquid has died here at the age of six years. That is a fabulous age for such a mouse which usually lives only about a year in its natural desert home.

Dr. Seth B. Benson, who caught the mouse near San Diego, says it consumed only small amounts of bird seed. Apparently it got all the water it needed from the dry seed. He says many desert animals have body processes which use very small amounts of water.

TV Is Shot

CHICAGO — (AP) — Two robbers picked up a television set in Donald De Frait's store. They toted it out the door, put it on the running board of their car and drove away. De Frait snatched up a gun, ran out and fired a series of shots. He didn't hit the robbers, but the last two bullets plunked into the TV set.

LOUISIANA GIRL THINKS HADACOL IS WONDERFUL

Suffered deficiencies of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin, and Iron

Pretty Betty Jo Prejean, 101 East Pine St., Ville Platte, La., says she wouldn't trade her bottle of HADACOL for all the tea in China. By giving her system the Vitamins it lacked, B-1, B-2, Iron, and Niacin, HADACOL has given her that wonderful HADACOL feeling.

Here is Miss Prejean's own statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was troubled with all the time. My system was so run-down that I actually couldn't work—I had to quit my job. Acheson Against Loan to Spain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today opposed the senate's $100,000,000 Spanish loan "rider" to a pending ECT appropriation.

He told a news conference there were adequate funds for any justified Spanish loan already available in the export-import bank.

He also said that the state department had met with no success in efforts recent months to persuade Spain to adopt a more democratic government.

The senate yesterday added to legislation appropriating funds for European recovery a clause saying a $100,000,000 loan should be made to Spain through the export-import bank.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) had proposed cutting Spain in for $100,000,000 of Marshall Plan funds. Stirling that the senate voted for the export-import bank plan.

Acheson recalled to his news conference that the state department had opposed McCarran's plan in the past.

Though he did not phrase it that way, Acheson's attitude appeared to be this in short: He feels any loan to Spain ought to be handled in the regular way; that congress ought not to tie the hands of government agencies in negotiations with Spain by directly ordering a loan.

Acheson did say he is not opposed to the principles of a loan to Spain if it is economically justifiable and a good credit risk.

Hennings Has a Good Lead Over Allison And Has Claimed Victory

The Hennings lead.

He claimed Hennings carried Barry county by a small margin.

Some of the other missing precincts were in normally Republican rural counties where the count is always slow.

Accorded Token Vote

Other Democratic candidates got only a token vote.

Republican Sen. Forrest C. Donnell — the man Mr. Truman wanted to beat with Allison in November — sailed into re-election for a second term without a serious challenge.

A heavy vote in St. Louis for Hennings piled up a 59,743 vote margin there. He also carried surrounding St. Louis county for one. That was enough to overbalance an edge for Allison in the rest of the state throughout most of the tabulating.

Jackson county, where Allison led the backing of the revived Pendergast organization, gave him a 28,000 margin there.

But in many counties, including the "Little Dixie" area of east-central Missouri, only a few votes separated the contestants. The vote was so close it raised the possibility the outcome might not be decided until several thousand absentee ballots are counted.

All incumbent congressmen — 12 Democrats and a Republican — appeared to have won re-election easily.

On the basis of 4,100 precincts, Allison had an edge in 130 counties. But in some it was a narrow decision.

None of the other contestants got as many as 10,000 votes.

It was the tie St. Louis vote that put Hennings ahead throughout the night and early morning. Voters turned out heavily to defeat a proposed new city charter extending "home rule" powers.

In contrast, much of the out-state voting was light. In some counties where there were no local contests to stir up interest, only a few hundred ballots were cast.

Holmes For Auditor

In the only other statewide race, for state auditor, incumbent William H. Holmes of Vienna pulled up a big victory over Walter H. Miller, former Jackson county assessor. Holmes won the last few weeks of the campaign in a Jefferson City hospital with asthma and complications.

In 4340 of 4676 precincts Holmes got 225,552. Miller 119,578.

On the Republican side it was a three-way race with William Barten, Jefferson City lawyer and former legislator, the apparent winner.

In 4340 precincts he had 67,200 to 62,676 for his nearest rival, St. Louis County Judge Alvin V. Barckmeyer. The total included all the St. Louis county votes. A third candidate, Joseph M. Barten, of St. Louis, trailed with 34,476.

Congressional Races

Here is the apparent November lineup in the Congressional races by districts:

First—Rep. Clare Macge (D), unopposed in the primary, versus former Rep. S. W. (Wat) Arnold (R) of Kirksville.

Second—Rep. Rep. Meridian Moulder (D) of Candenton vs. Rep. Max Schwabe of Columbia, unopposed in the primary.

Third—Rep. Phil J. Welton (D) of St. Joseph vs. former Rep. William C. Cole, (R) of St. Joseph, both unopposed in the primary.

Fourth—Rep. Leonard Irvine (D) of Independence vs. Vernon D. Falerat (R) of Kansas City, unopposed in the primary.

Fifth—Rep. Richard Bolling (D) of Kansas City vs. Richard Jensen (R) of Kansas City.

Sixth—Rep. George H. Christy (D) of Ames vs. O. K. Armstrong (R) of Springfield.

Give Sanction to Standby Power

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Senate Banking committee today approved, 12 to 1, the general policy of granting President Truman standby power to put on wage, price and rationing controls.

Chairman Mayhew (D-S.C.) told reporters the committee had taken no action yet on any specific bill.

"We just approved the general principle," Mayhew said.

The vote means, however, that standby wage-price controls will be in the bill finally approved by the committee unless there is a complete reversal of sentiment.

Proposal For Bases in Spain

By Jack Dell

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Senate approval of a $100,000,000 loan to Spain prompted a proposal by Sen. Hiram Bingham (R-N.H.) today that the United States seek an agreement for use of Spanish bases if war breaks out in Europe.

The Senate voted the Spanish loan provision into the one-part, one-appropriation bill by a 65 to 15 vote yesterday. Sponsors argued for it on the grounds that Spain is important strategically and also is anti-communist. However, Senator Hiram Bingham (R-N.H.) today said he was not in favor of the French government into friendly relations.

Morse was one of the four Republicans and 11 Democrats who opposed a directive to the government's export-import bank to make the funds available to Spain. The loan would permit the purchase in the United States of such commodities as wheat and cotton.

In the house, which has not passed on the issue, also approves, the United States is expected to get some strategic metals in payment.

Briggs told a reporter he thinks the proposed commercial transaction might well be broadened to include Spain in the more than $500,000,000 in foreign military assistance that Congress is expected to make available soon.

This coincided with a proposal by Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) of the Senate armed services committee that other nations which get American military supplies be required to produce on their own tank — on its equivalent — for every tank they get from the United States.

Tydings told the Senate yesterday that he thinks President Truman ought to ask for more than the $4,000,000,000 additional funds he requested. Congress previously had approved a $1,222,500,000 foreign arms outlay.

Names Judge Hollingsworth

Industrial, sober, friendly and above all a fair minded searcher for the truth.

"He is revered and respected by lawyers of both parties throughout the state."

Hollingsworth is 62 years old. He was born in Pike county, Mo., went to high school at Verdalia, Mo., and was graduated from Chittanooga (Tenn.) College of Law.

He was prosecuting attorney of Audrain county in the early 20's and was appointed to the circuit judgeship 11 years ago. Twice he has been a candidate for appointment to the supreme court.

The Governor also announced he appointed Gov. D. Dewell of Montgomery City to replace Judge Hollingsworth on the circuit bench. Dowell, former probate judge and prosecuting attorney of Montgomery county, will take over the judgeship "when he can wind up his affairs," Smith said. He indicated that would be by the middle of the month.

FAIR TIME

At this time of the year many farmers start dreaming about getting their animal or animals ready to show. So we have added to our large stock a wide variety of things that might be needed such as Curry Combs, Halters, Rope Halters, Hoof Knives and Rasps, Leads Roaching Shears, Calf Cows and Bull Halters, Scrapers and Show Brushes, Teelock Clippers, Brushes, Scotch Combs, Coat Dressing and a multitude of others.

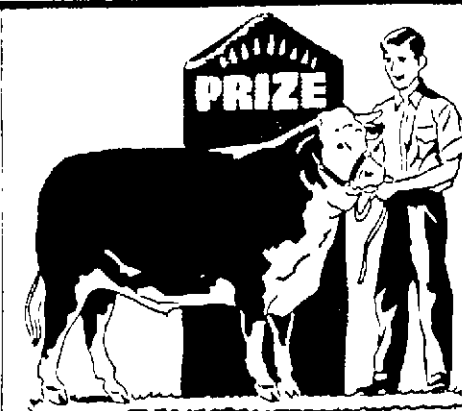

Since this is a one time deal it stands to reason that this amounts to a service for our customers. We know that from a profit angle it is not justified—but we are happy to be in a position to have all of these things for you!
